

Bryan Viau of VTI Security Elected President of the Minnesota Chapter of the Huntington's Disease Society of America

Group Helps to Support 1,200 Minnesota Families Affected by the Disease

Burnsville, Minn. – November 5, 2009 -- The Minnesota Chapter of the Huntington's Disease Society of America has elected Bryan Viau president of its board of directors.

Viau, VTI's executive vice president, has been with the company for 10 years, based in its Burnsville, Minn. headquarters. VTI Security is a 29-year-old locally owned company and member of Security-Net, a network of 24 independent international system integrators.

Huntington's Disease is a devastating, hereditary, degenerative brain disorder for which there is, at present, no effective treatment or cure. Over 1,200 Minnesota families are victims of Huntington's Disease and the HDSA Minnesota chapter works to educate the public and create funding for medical research. VTI Security is an active supporter of HDSA through community service initiatives and fundraising events.
